This Week's Learning

We have been learning about all the animals that like to live in the snow, and that some animals (such as the snowy owl) live in countries where it snows, and a barn owl doesn't. Also some rabbits live in the snow and some rabbits do not. We have been experimenting with corn flour and with sugar cubes in our tray outside to create igloos!

Something Special

With the weather getting chillier, why not have a go at some of your own winter experiments together at home? You could make a snowstorm in a jar, make your own snow or even some snow slime!

There are lots of fun and exciting experiments via this link: <http://domesticmommyhood.com/10-winter-preschool-science-experiments-to-keep-their-minds-learning/>
