This Week's Learning

This week's rhyme of This Little Piggy has been extended into the outdoor area where the children have been reading The 3 Little Pigs story. They have used props to re-tell the story and been builders with bricks and sticks to create their own houses. They worked together to try and find the best way to stop it falling down.

Something Special

Why not look around your house to see if you could make a house for a toy you have at home? Once you have built the house together, try and see if you can blow it down, just like in the story. I wonder which building materials worked best? Do you know why they worked best?
